

I have been on the IN do-not-call list for quite some time, and have appreciated the freedom it provides from unwanted calls. I oppose the petition by CBA to permit financial institutions to once again call me. Each of my existing business relationships have the opportunity to contact via mail to specifically request permission to call me on a given matter, and therefore do not need this loop-hole.